

A NOTE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Happy New Year! The joyful smiles and energy of the returning students have provided a wonderful start to this year. I also realized that getting back into the school routine was necessary, as sleeping in made me less productive. ;)

This week, the cold weather has arrived. On Tuesday, I saw many enthusiastic students arriving in snow pants and boots during morning carline, and I was hopeful that we could venture outside. However, the temperature dropped below 20 degrees. Interestingly, the students don't seem to mind the cold when snowflakes are falling!

In the past, we kept students outside from 7:15 to 7:30 unless there were wet or slushy conditions, allowing teachers to prepare their classrooms while the students followed their routine. However, I understand that some parents have raised concerns about this, so we will bring students into the commons starting at 7:15 a.m. when temperatures fall below twenty degrees. We will not be doing this during afternoon carline as I believe parents would dislike this approach in the afternoon carline, as they might be unhappy about waiting longer in line for their students. Therefore, we will aim to go outside every day for afternoon carline, unless weather conditions or emergencies prevent us from doing so.

I want to remind parents that we have requested students to come to school dressed appropriately for outdoor activities, as we have noticed many arriving without the necessary gear quite frequently. Our principle of Love and Logic is that students will still go outside and learn to bring the appropriate gear next time.

For legal reasons we will not have staff doing the corner (street) when their are icy conditions, while this will make traffic slower we do not believe it is safe for the team to be in the street and there is a liability concern. If your child is walking to campus their will not be a crossing guard at that location so please plan to bring them through the car-line on those days. Also after discussing the car-line with our team we are working on a trial of new flow and will be sending home communication about this soon.
