

THE MUSTANG POST

09/27/24

Dear Families,

Each month, we celebrate a virtue. October's Virtue comes from Benjamin Franklin's list of 13 virtues from his autobiography. This virtue is, in my words, the art of not speaking. Ben Franklin puts it this way: "SILENCE. Speak not but what may benefit others or yourself; avoid trifling conversation." This simple but solid virtue, if practiced, would certainly make us all better people.

"Truth is so obscure in these times, and falsehood so established, that unless we love the truth, we cannot know it." ~Blaise Pascal
